OVERVIEW

Steamboat Springs Arts Council's Creative District is issuing a call for an individual or group of artists to install colorful murals on selected buildings in the Yampa Street alleyways in downtown Steamboat Springs.

ABOUT STEAMBOAT CREATIVE DISTRICT

In Northwest Colorado there is special mountain town that embraces the western heritage and pioneering spirit of the Old West. Selected because of its natural beauty and healing waters, its rugged settlers first created a market town that has since developed a unique story; embracing skiing, world renowned Olympian heritage and creative, artistic endeavors.

Steamboat Springs' unique mix of warm sun, cowboy boots and friendly locals lends an inviting, laid back atmosphere to the historic Colorado resort town, where western heritage meets abundant outdoor adventure and cultural activities. The citizens of Steamboat Springs have embraced arts, culture, and learning since the town's beginning. Dedication to the arts still thrives through the town's art galleries, concerts, performances, library, and museums.

The downtown mural project came to life thanks to the generous contributions of Greencourte Partners' downtown public art fund and leadership from the Steamboat Springs Arts Council along with the tremendous help and support from local and regional artisans, building owners and volunteers.
