

Call for Artists: Colorado Mountain College – Steamboat Springs Mural Opportunity

Overview

The installation of murals and public art enhances the visual landscape of Steamboat Springs and enriches student life through creativity placemaking. This mural opportunity at Colorado Mountain College's Steamboat Springs Campus invites artists to submit contemporary designs that embodies growth, innovation, and contemplation—reflecting the dynamic learning environment of the college. The 'Joy in the Journey' mural project will transform a prominent stairwell descending from the third floor (social spaces) to the second floor (classrooms) into a place for reflection and inspiration.

In the early 1990s, Professors George Tolles and Terry Hunter constructed a labyrinth maze on campus to encourage contemplative walking. The curatorial committee seeks to honor that legacy through a visually compelling, abstract mural design that incorporates graphic elements native to the campus—such as pathways, trails, maze-like patterns—and evokes the spirit of growth and innovation. Designs should be colorful, interesting and enhance the space in a compelling way.

Theme: Joy in the Journey

Visual elements: Rivers, trails, pathways, growth.

Art Style: Successful applications will include art styles that venture away from realism. Artists are encouraged to submit work that taps into styles like abstract, futurism, pointillism, avant-garde, and styles that go beyond realism.

Budget:

- Artist honorarium = up to $8,000, depending on the design detail and scope
- inclusive of all materials, equipment, labor, and installation costs
- Artist is expected to prep the wall for installation, create and install original artwork, apply SC logo in bottom right corner of design, apply a UV sealant, pay for all supplies including: paint, materials, brushes, drop cloths, ladders, etc

Target Population: Students, faculty, staff, residents, visitors and the general public

Submission Requirements:

- Submit up to 3 design renderings (jpeg) focusing on the theme
- Recommended overlaying your design on the wall image for optimal viewing
- Submit bio, website link and samples of artwork
- Submission via google form required: <https://forms.gle/jaJZToJHrc8cuWyV7>

Public Art Maintenance:

- All attempts will be made to contact the original artist for repair and maintenance, if not available in a timely or affordable manner, the property owner will hire a professional.

Timeline:

- Deadline for Proposals: February 20, 2026
- Installation Window: March 6-15, 2026

Judging criteria:

The success of design will be determined by three key measures:

- 1) artistic merit and design
- 2) hits the mark with the contemporary theme of “Joy in the Journey”
- 3) professional presentation of designs
- 4) experience installing murals

Guidance:

The curatorial committee will include a selection of CMC representatives, Steamboat Creates representatives and specialists as needed. Successful concepts will be professionally presented, contain original ideas, be eye-catching from a distance, incorporate the abstract nature of the theme. Consider including a visual representation of various elements like rivers, pathways, trails, labyrinths and mazes and growth.

In partnership with Steamboat Creates, this project will bring together creative activities from established and/or emerging artists utilizing techniques of urban art, street art, painted murals or installations.

Please direct inquiries and questions to:

Kim Keith, Executive Director
Steamboat Creates
(970)879-9008
kim@steamboatcreates.org

Keywords:

Steamboat Creates – PO Box 774284 – Steamboat Springs, CO 80477 – 970-879-9008 – kim@steamboatcreates.org
Steamboat Creates nurtures the arts so creativity flourishes in Routt County.

SUMMARY:

Colorado Mountain College: Stairwell Mural - Academic Building

3rd floor looking to 2nd floor

Artist Honorarium: $8,000

includes materials all cost for your complete installation.

Theme: Joy in the Journey

Deadlines:

Call for Entry: February 20, 2026

Installation: March 6-15, 2026

Submissions:

<https://forms.gle/jaJZToJHrc8cuWyV7>

Stairwell wall dimensions:

Sides: 324" L x "76" T

Front: 103" L x 76" T

glass will be removed prior to installing the mural

Description:

In the early '90s, Professors George Tolles and Terry Hunter built a labyrinth maze at the Steamboat campus encouraging contemplative walking. Similarly, this stairwell space invites contemplation as you descend from the 3rd floor which is focused on social activities down to the 2nd floor where classrooms and administrative offices reside.

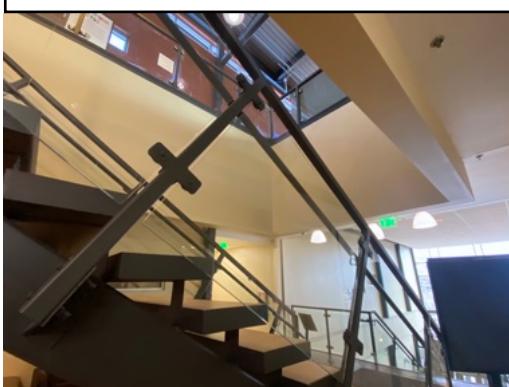

The curatorial committee would like to see abstract designs that are colorful and visually interesting that embody the spirit of growth and innovation. incorporates graphic elements native to the campus—such as pathways, trails, maze-like patterns—and evokes the spirit of growth and innovation. Designs should be colorful, interesting and enhance the space in a compelling way.

2nd floor looking to south

2nd floor looking to north west

2nd floor looking to north

